Drawing on his background in mathematics and economics, Tim approaches litigation with a data-driven focus on evaluating damages and liability.

Prior to joining the firm, Tim practiced at a large regional law firm, where he worked on high-profile matters for Fortune 500 companies across industries including information technology, online gaming, video streaming, and semiconductors. Most recently at HSSK, Tim was instrumental in obtaining a $5 million settlement for nearly 1,000 displaced nursing students following the sudden closure of Stone Academy, and securing additional remedial relief from the State of Connecticut.

Tim is a co-author of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices (CUTPA), Business Torts and Antitrust treatise, and regularly teaches Gateway to Practice at Quinnipiac Law School, a course designed to introduce students to the fundamentals of litigation. He served as a law clerk to the Honorable Gary R. Brown of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York.
